

VICE PRESIDENT AND MRS. MARSHALL COME FOR REST IN VALLEY

That Vice President Thomas R. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, who died in Washington last Thursday, and that his death has deeply affected them, was evident when an interviewer sought the vice president when he arrived here yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. Marshall.

The boy, who died after a short illness from acidosis, was never legally adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, but had been a member of their household since June, 1917, when he was taken at the age of 10 months, from a Washington diet kitchen where his mother, a chambermaid, had left him in care as her duties occupied her both day and night. Vice President and Mrs. Marshall have no children of their own.

"I would rather not talk about politics or anything else just now," Mr. Marshall said. "You know I buried my little baby boy last week, and Mrs. Marshall and I have come here for a rest."

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall went to their home near Scottsdale.

Mrs. Marshall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kimsely, also make their home in Scottsdale. It has been the vice president's custom to spend a part of the winter months of each year in the valley. He is said to have announced an intention of becoming a year-round resident of Arizona when his term of office has been completed.

CONDITIONS ARE GOOD ON RANGES OF ARIZONA

Absence of stormy weather, moderate temperature, and improvement in vegetation characterize conditions as they prevailed over stock ranges during the past week, according to Wednesday's Weather bureau report. On the northeastern plateau the range is covered with green vegetation and stock has made marked improvement since it has become available. In the Apache Indian reservation pasture is ample and stock are doing well. Snow continues to disappear from the high elevations. There has been no erosion of soil except along the stream beds after the recent heavy rains. In central Pima county a large part of the range is covered with an abundance of dry grass that was cured last autumn. Green grass has started and judging from appearances there will be plenty of it. Weeds in places are going to sed already and stock have been feeding on them for some time. Stock continued in good condition throughout the winter and cows with calves show very little falling off. No feeding has been done in that section. Steers are all sold for May delivery, none having been shipped since fall sales. Sheep on desert pastures are in excellent condition and lambs strong.
